1 SEATING

The top diagram shows dimensions for a general purpose chair intended for brief periods of use. A 17-in. or 43.2-cm. seat height will accommodate most adults, except very small females, who may require a 16-in. or 40.6-cm. and in extreme cases, even a 14-in. or 35.6-cm. seat height. A smaller user, however, can function with a greater seat height by using a footrest.

The bottom diagram shows the dimensions for an executive chair, a type intended for a longer duration of use. The buttock-popliteal length governs the seat depth. This length, for 95 percent of both men and women, is 17-in. or 43.2-cm. or more. A seat depth not exceeding that should, therefore, accommodate a large majority of users. The very large person, however, would find that such a depth might leave a substantial portion of his thigh unsupported, while a very small person would find that the edge of the seat might dig into the tissue behind his or her knee.
